driers to rebel nail varnish, one

Cork business has been turning heads, such is their support for

Hennessy Hair and Beauty Supplies

from

throughout the city to win the Cork

Business Association's red and white window display competition, which their support and Hennessy Hair and Manager John Forth said: "Basically anything that was red and white went into the window display and a few members of staff bought another few

Open: Mon-Sat 9.30-5.30. Sun: 2-5.30

The CBA urged local traders to show was sponsored by Vibes and Scribes.

businesses

the Cork hurlers.

Beauty went all-out.

competition

Hennessy's show true Rebel colours

FROM red and white blow By DEIRDRE O'REILLY

red and white items in as well to add to it. Since we finished the display, people have been stopping to look at it, taking pictures and coming in to congratulate us. There has been a really good atmoon Pembroke Street beat off some stiff sphere," he said.

Chief Executive Officer of the CBA, Donal Healy congratulated all Cork businesses that made an effort to go red and white.

"Our teams have shown by their skill, commitment and competitive edge what can be achieved and they deserve the support of the people.

"The city and county has responded and we are delighted with the response and support from every business," said Donal.

Joan Lucey of Vibes and Scribes presents the best dressed window award for the Cork Rebels to Pat Hennessy of Hennessy's Hair and Beauty Supplies, Pembroke Street. Also included are Kathleen Hennessy, director; John Forth, shop manager; Susan McCarthy, director, and Ernest Cantillon, president of the Cork Business Association. Picture: David Keane

